Faraday will establish a disclosure committee (the "Disclosure Committee") which will be responsible for determining whether information is material information, the timely disclosure of material information in accordance with applicable securities laws and stock exchange rules and regulations, monitoring compliance with this Policy and overseeing Faraday's disclosure controls and procedures.

6.0 General Guidelines

6.1 Principals of Disclosure of Material Information

In complying with the continuous disclosure obligations imposed by Canadian securities law and the regulations and the rules of the TSX, Faraday shall be governed by the following principles in disseminating material information:

- (a) material information shall be publicly disclosed immediately by way of press release, the dissemination of which shall contemporaneously include all applicable regulators;
- (b) material changes in the business and affairs of Faraday shall be described in a material change report, which shall be filed with the applicable Canadian securities regulators as soon as practical and in any event no later than ten (10) days after the material change occurs. In the event of a material change which the Chief Executive Officer has determined should remain confidential, upon approval by the Board of Directors (the "Board"), a confidential material change report shall be filed with the applicable Canadian securities regulators, and the Chief Executive Officer and the Board shall review their decision to keep the information confidential not less than every ten (10) days;
- (c) there is no distinction between favorable and unfavorable material information for disclosure purposes and both types of material must be disclosed promptly and fully in accordance with this Policy;
- (d) disclosure must be complete and include any information which by omission would make the rest of the disclosure misleading;
- (e) there should be no selective disclosure whether to an analyst, significant investor or other person which is not made to the general public;
- (f) disclosure should, to the fullest extent possible, be written in accordance with the plain language principles set forth in Companion Policy 51-102CP – Continuous Disclosure Obligations; and

FARADAY COPPER

- (g) everyone to whom this Policy applies who becomes aware of information that appears to be material shall immediately disclose that information to at least one of the members of the Disclosure Committee enumerated in Section 5.2.

6.2 Material Information

When determining whether or not information is material, the following factors should be taken into account:

- (a) the nature of the information, the volatility and liquidity of Faraday's securities and how prevailing market conditions will impact on materiality;
- (b) the determination of whether or not information is material often involves the exercise of sound business judgments based upon experience; and
- (c) if there is any doubt about whether or not information is material, Faraday must err on the side of caution and the information must be disclosed to the public.

It is not possible to define all categories of material information. However, information should be regarded as material if there is a reasonable likelihood that such information would be considered important to an investor in making an investment decision regarding the purchase or sale of Faraday's securities. For a general discussion of material information and a non-exhaustive list of examples of information that may be material, depending on the circumstances, see Schedule B "Examples of Information That May Be Material" to Faraday's Insider Trading Policy.

6.3 Issuing Press Releases

The Disclosure Committee will make the determination as to whether any particular material information should be disclosed and the timing of such disclosure. Thereafter:

- (a) the management team shall prepare a draft of the press release which shall be circulated to the members of the Disclosure Committee, and such other employees as may be appropriate given the contents of the proposed press release, for their review and approval;
- (b) once completed, the press release shall be submitted to the Disclosure Committee and, in cases where the press release contains financial information, the Audit Committee and the Board of Directors, for final review, approval and authorization for dissemination;
- (c) as time is of the essence in the dissemination of material information, approvals of press releases by the Disclosure or Audit Committees, or Board of Directors, as the case may be, will be obtained by a majority of members via email;
- (d) once approved,
 - (i) if the news release is to be released between 8am EST and 4pm EST, such press release shall be submitted to the Investment Industry Regulatory Organization of Canada ("IIROC") in advance of its release;
 - (ii) where a press release is to be released after 4pm EST, or before 8am EST, a copy should be sent to IIROC at the same time that Faraday disseminates it, and a voicemail should be left with IIROC to advise them of the news release.;
- (e) after the press release has been disseminated, Faraday shall forthwith file it on SEDAR and post its contents in full on the Faraday website;

FARADAY COPPER

- (f) where the press release contains financial information, concurrently file the financial statements and all supporting documents on SEDAR, as applicable;
- (g) if a conference call is planned, provide advance notice by way of press release of the date and time of any conference call to discuss the material information, the subject matter of the call and the means for accessing it;
- (h) hold the conference call in an open manner, permitting investors and others to listen either by telephone or through internet webcasting; and
- (i) provide dial-in and/or webcast replay or make transcripts of the call available for a reasonable period of time after the conference call.

6.4 Designated Spokespeople

Employees other than the Authorized Spokespersons must not respond under any circumstances to inquiries from the investment community, the media, regulatory authorities or others unless specifically authorized by one of the Authorized Spokespersons. All such communications must be referred to an Authorized Spokesperson. Authorized Spokespersons for any subsidiary of Faraday shall be designated by the Chief Executive Officer.

Any spokesperson of Faraday, whether authorized or not, who makes a public oral statement that contains a misrepresentation, could be sued. In addition, Faraday and each of the directors and officers of Faraday may also be sued as a result of a spokesperson making a public statement containing a misrepresentation.

6.5 Confidentiality of Information

All directors, officers and employees of, and consultants to, Faraday are legally bound not to disclose material undisclosed information, and shall not disclose confidential information, to anyone outside of Faraday. In addition to the legal requirements, directors, officers and employees of, and consultants to, Faraday are expected to observe the following:

- (a) do not discuss Faraday's business and affairs in places where the discussion may be overheard or through social media or other similar forms of electronic or internet communications;
- (b) confidential documents should not be read or displayed in public places or discarded where they can be retrieved;
- (c) documents and files containing confidential information should be kept in a safe place with restricted access;
- (d) access to mobile devices containing Faraday information (such as smartphones, tablets and laptops) should be restricted by passcodes or other appropriate security features;
- (e) appropriate precautions should be taken when sharing, replacing and/or discarding electronic devices including external hard drives and USB keys;
- (f) transmission of documents or information by fax, email, instant message or other electronic means should be made only where it is reasonable to assume that transmission can be made and received under secure conditions, and;

- (g) documents containing confidential information should be promptly removed from conference rooms and work areas after meetings have concluded and extra copies of confidential documents should be destroyed.

Every effort shall be made to limit access to such confidential information to only those who need to know the information, and such persons shall be advised that the information is to be kept confidential.

Outside parties who receive or are privy to undisclosed confidential information in the course of conducting business with Faraday must confirm their commitment to non-disclosure in a written confidentiality agreement.

6.6 Selective Disclosure

All directors, officers and employees of, and consultants to, Faraday are legally bound not to disclose confidential information, including material non-public information, to anyone outside of Faraday. Disclosure of such information that has not been publicly disclosed to any person or select group, including investment analysts, institutional investors, other market professionals and the media, is considered selective disclosure. Selective disclosure is illegal and is prohibited.

6.7 Unintentional Selective Disclosure

Disclosure of material non-public information by a person who either did not know or was reckless in not knowing, prior to making the disclosure, is unintentional selective disclosure. If unintentional selective disclosure has been made, then the Disclosure Committee must be immediately notified. The Disclosure Committee shall immediately take all appropriate steps including:

- (a) notify the TSX immediately of the unintentional selective disclosure and determine with the TSX whether a trading halt should be instituted pending issuance of a press release;
- (b) publicly disclose the material information by way of press release; and
- (c) notify the person to whom the unintentional selective disclosure was made that such information has not been publicly disclosed and must remain confidential and that they may not trade in securities of Faraday with knowledge of such information until it is generally disclosed to the extent applicable.

7.0 Dealing with Regulators

If requested by a stock exchange or other securities regulatory authority to make a public statement, including in response to a rumour, the Disclosure Committee shall consider whether to make a statement and determine the content of the disclosure, if any. In making its decision, the Disclosure Committee may consider the advice, if any, of the securities regulatory authority or other external advisors, as it deems appropriate.

The Chief Executive Officer will be responsible for receiving inquiries from IIROC, with respect to unusual trading activity, market rumours or other similar inquiries.

The Chief Executive Officer is responsible for contacting IIROC in advance of a news release of material information, to seek approval of the news release, to watch for unusual trading, and to determine if a halt in trading is required.

8.0 Dealing with the Investment Community

8.1 General

In communicating with investment analysts, security holders, potential investors and the media, the following practices must be avoided:

- (a) announcing material undisclosed information that has not previously been announced by way of a press release;
- (b) selective disclosure;
- (c) attendance of less than two individuals designated by Faraday to communicate on its behalf during any such communication;
- (d) distribution of investment analyst reports (only lists of all analysts providing coverage will be supplied) to the public or employees; and
- (e) commenting on current period earnings estimates and financial assumptions other than as may be generally disclosed.

8.2 Analyst Meetings

Faraday's executives may meet with analysts and portfolio managers on an individual or small group basis as required, and initiate or respond to analysts and investor calls in a timely manner. Normally, the Chief Executive Officer, or his/her designate, will attend such meetings. When the Chief Executive Officer, or his/her designate, is unable to attend such meetings, prior to such meetings, he/she may brief those participating in Faraday's public disclosure to help ensure consistency in messages and disclosure. Where practical, statements and responses to anticipated questions should be scripted or discussed in advance. The purposes of the Chief Executive Officer's attendance at such meetings and/or the pre-briefing is to keep detailed records and/or transcripts of all meetings, and to ensure that selective disclosure of undisclosed material information does not occur and to allow follow-up cross-briefing to other Authorized Spokespersons to ensure that communication is consistent amongst all Authorized Spokespersons.

In general, conversations with analysts should be limited to explanations or clarifications of publicly disclosed material information or other non-material information or non-confidential information. When information is formalized into a written schedule for wide distribution, it will be included in the official disclosure record containing copies of all such information, and maintained for at least five years. While Faraday must provide the same oral or written schedule information to any person who requests it, it is not required to formally capture the various non-material discussions held.

If for any reason material non-public information is selectively disclosed to analysts, investors or media in any forum, the members of the Disclosure Committee should be immediately notified, and the Disclosure Committee shall determine the appropriate courses of action in accordance with this Policy.

8.3 Analyst Reports and Models

No one may comment on draft analyst reports, financial models and their underlying assumptions. Faraday may correct the accuracy of factual information and discuss economic and industry trends, which are generally known, that may affect it.

Final reports of the analyst are proprietary to the analyst's firm and Faraday should not be seen as endorsing such reports by redistributing or making them generally available to the public or to employees.

Notwithstanding this, subject to applicable laws, Faraday can distribute analyst reports to its board of directors, senior managers, credit agencies and financial and professional advisors to assist them in monitoring communications about Faraday and how corporate developments are affecting their analysis.

Faraday shall seek to post on its website a complete listing of the analysts who have reports available for their retail clients (regardless of their recommendation), their firm and phone number. Faraday will not provide a link to their website or publications and will not post copies of analyst reports on the Faraday website.

8.4 Analyst Estimates

Responses by the Chief Executive Officer with respect to inquiries by analysts regarding Faraday's estimates shall be limited to: company forecasts and guidance already publicly disclosed and the range and average of estimates made by other analysts.

Should management determine that future results will likely be significantly or materially out of the range of any previously issued guidance by Faraday, the Disclosure Committee should immediately consider the appropriateness of issuing a news release and conducting a conference call to explain the change.

8.5 Industry Conferences

Faraday may participate in various industry conferences in Canada and elsewhere. In general, conversations with interested parties should be limited to explanations or clarifications of publicly disclosed material information or other non-material information or non-confidential information. Brochures or other handouts must be approved by the Chief Executive Officer and, if required, by the Disclosure Committee, prior to dissemination to the public. The Chief Executive Officer should be present to monitor that material information is not disclosed.

8.6 No Trade Periods and Blackout Periods

The period beginning fifteen Trading Days prior to and ending two Trading Days (as defined herein) following the date of public disclosure of the financial results for that quarter or fiscal year (a "No Trade Period") is particularly sensitive, as officers, directors, certain employees, consultants or others may often possess undisclosed material information about the expected financial results for the quarter and year end. "Trading Day" means a day on which the TSX is open for trading.

From time to time, Faraday may also institute additional trading restricted periods for directors, officers, selected employees, consultants and others because of the existence of undisclosed material information (a "Blackout Period").

During No Trade Periods and Blackout Periods, as set out in the Insider Trading Policy, all Authorized Spokespersons are prohibited from commenting on current period earnings estimates and financial assumptions, other than to cite or refer to existing public guidance. Communications must be limited to commenting on publicly available or non-material information. During No Trade Periods and Blackout Periods, all Authorized Spokespersons must also avoid initiating meetings (in person or by phone) with investment analysts, security holders, potential investors and the media on items significant to investors, other than responding to unsolicited inquiries concerning factual information. Faraday does not, however, have to stop all communications with analysts or investors during this period and may, for example, participate in investment meetings and conferences organized by other parties, as long as material information which has not been publicly disclosed, is not selectively disclose

- (b) If the TSX requests that Faraday make a definitive statement in response to a market rumour, the Chief Executive Officer shall consider the matter and present a recommendation as to the nature and content of a response to the Disclosure Committee and the Disclosure Committee shall decide whether to make a policy exception, having regard to any requirement to do so by the TSX; and
- (c) If the rumour is true in whole or in part with respect to undisclosed material information an obligation to disclose such information may be created.
